What's better than a talented, full-service interior design team with a Colorado pedigree? One that has an in-house architecture team to assist with remodels and new, ground-up construction projects. With a holistic, expansive view of interior design as their guide, Collective Design Group works with their extensive network of building professionals, artisans and manufactures to ensure that each client's experience is seamless and that every detail is considered. Lead designer Lisa Yates, senior designers Nicole Frye, Rachel Obernesser and Catherine Lykins, and their expert team begin each project by establishing strong client relationships based on open communication and trust, which ensures a collaborative and fun design process. This, according to Yates, "Results in an elegant, timeless and functional home that surpasses our clients' unique wants, needs and lifestyles."

"We want our clients to be inspired by our work and creativity, and excited to let us design a home that is uniquely theirs."

MATERIAL WITNESS

"I would describe CDG's design signature as Mountain Modern with an organic sensibility and a focus on bringing the outdoors in," Yates shares. "We love to blend natural materials and finishes as well as the colors and tones that we observe in the gorgeous views surrounding us in our projects. Recently, we've been embracing neutral palettes with pops of color inspired by the local scenery, which we complement with native materials like wood from the surrounding forests, marble from Marble, Colorado and granite from Granite, Colorado. We also work with local craftspeople and artisans and include works by our favorite Colorado photographers and artists in our clients' homes. Incorporating colors, textures, patterns and materials from the natural environment and our local communities makes our designs uniquely Colorado."

COLORADO, MY HOME

- Setting: CDG is based in Frisco, but services all of Colorado including Breckenridge, Keystone, Copper, Vail, Steamboat, Winter Park, Aspen, Telluride and beyond.
- Style: The current state of Colorado design mixes sleek Mountain Modern elements with rustic touches that are focused on bringing the outdoors in.

Top The primary bedroom's delightful deck offers a serene lounging area furnished with custom pieces and a hanging pod for reading or meditating with a mountain view. Left Enlivened by a breathtaking, live-edge console and a hair-on-hide rug, this elegant entry offers a warm welcome into the sophisticated open floor plan. Right A custom, live-edge wood headboard is a stylish juxtaposition to the primary bedroom's soft patterns and silk wallcovering. Opposite This one-of-a-kind mountain bunkroom is crowned with a custom fixture that pays homage to the home's ski-in, ski-out location.
